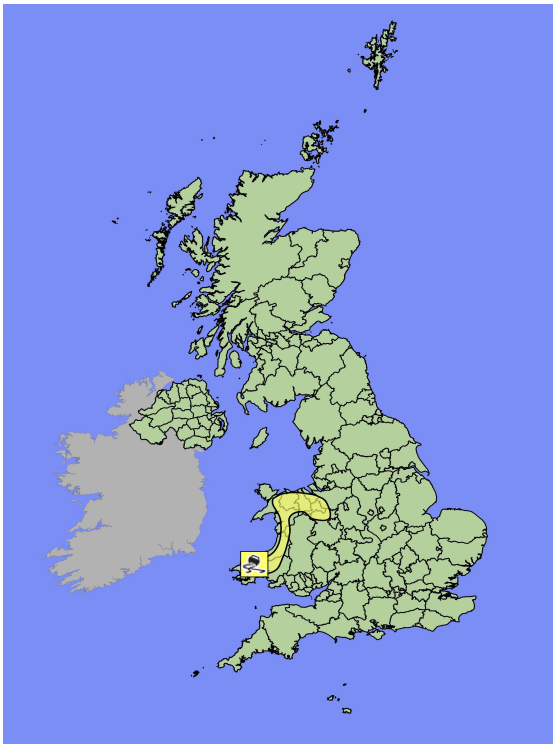
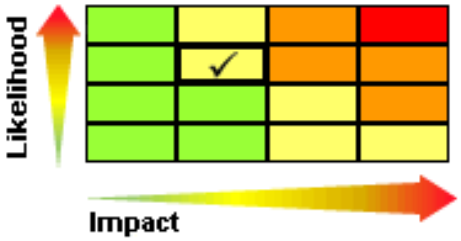
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Showers are likely to affect parts of Wales overnight, and perhaps parts of Cheshire, Shropshire and the northwest Midlands by Thursday morning. This leads to a risk of icy patches on untreated surfaces inland and some small accumulations of snow above around 150 metres.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 19:00 on Wed, 06th Feb 2013 until 10:00 on Thu, 07th Feb 2013

Icy patches are possible on untreated surfaces overnight, as well as some small accumulations of snow on hills. The public should be aware of the potential for some minor disruption to transport.
